

INDIAN WOOD CIRCLE

Maumee, Ohio
1999

www.duketarchitects.com

This building was developed for a medical and insurance consulting group, and represents the first phase of a two-phase complex. The structure was designed with three pods, two of which contain space for the owner, and the remainder as lease space and for future expansion. At the center of the interior, a large space with a natural light monitor above covers an open office work area with support offices around the perimeter.

