A complete renovation of a 60's era residence into a new creative sanctuary for Everwild, a graphic design and branding firm that specializes in helping cities develop bids to host the Olympics and FIFA World Cup, as they successfully secured the 2014 and 2018 Olympic Winter Games for Sochi, Russia and PyeongChang, South Korea, respectively. With the addition of two new pods, this new office has a total of four connected pods that provide a variety of work spaces and encourage creative collaboration within the company, while offering views of the 12-acre wooded site. A detached kitchen with an outdoor lounge space serves as a separate area for people to interact with their natural setting while taking a break from their creative endeavors.
